WOODBINE, GEORGIA – July 3, 2015 – Camden County Board of Commissioners would like to recognize Nancy Gonzalez and Adam Kabasakalian for receiving Masters of Business Administration degrees from Brenau University. Nancy and Adam's commitment to using their training and education to help enrich and improve Camden County is commendable.

Nancy Gonzalez is the Assistant Director of the Finance & Budget department. Hired in 2013 as an accountant, Mrs. Gonzalez soon became the Assistant Director in 2014. Her work performance and cooperation displays countywide teamwork; and her work ethic, dedication and professionalism is instrumental in the delivery and success her team achieves every day.

Mrs. Gonzalez was awarded the Georgian Government Finance Officers Association (GGFOA) Annual Scholarship in 2013 and the Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) of the United States and Canada Professional Development Scholarship in 2015.

Mrs. Gonzalez recently attended the annual GFOA conference in Philadelphia, with GFOA sponsoring her trip.

initiative to take on higher education while working full time. I look forward to her continued success with the county and working with Nancy for many more years to come.”

Adam Kabasakalian is Director of Administrative Services and began with Camden County as a Management Analyst in 2008. Adam began taking classes at Brenau University in 2009 as time would allow. Adam has been a large contributor in making Camden an award winning organization.

Both Mrs. Gonzalez and Mr. Kabasakalian continued to work full time while attending course’s at night and online, which took a lot of effort and devotion on their part. County Administrator Steve Howard said, “I would like to congratulate both Nancy and Adam on this great accomplishment and achieving their personal goals of earning an advanced degree that could not have been achieved without discipline, hard work and persistence”
